Dear Wes:

I wonder whether you would be interested in reviewing Russell Field's The Diplomacy of Southeast Asia: 1945-1958. I have in mind a review of about 800 words. Since I may be a little short of material for the February issue, I could perhaps use the review then if it came in by November 1. However, I realize that is not much time, and you can have until February 1 if you prefer. I hope you can accept. The book looks like a substantial piece of work.

Sincerely yours,

C. Herman Pritchett

Dear Herman:

I should be very happy to review for the Midwest Journal
Russel Fifield's The Diplomacy of Southeast Asia: 1945-1958. I am not sure that I will be able to get this into you by November 1, but I shall do my best.

Sincerely yours,

Wesley R. Fishel

Dear Wes:

Thanks very much for taking the Fifield book for review. Do you suppose you could add a paragraph or two covering the new Cornell University Press book, Major Governments of Asia, edited by George Kahin. I presume this is a text, and we do not usually review texts, but this looks like a high level piece of work. Let me know if I should send it to you.

Sincerely yours,

C. Herman Pritchett

Dear Herman:

Yes, I would be happy to add "a paragraph or two" on George Kahin's Major Governments of Asia. Let me remind you, however, that I doubt very much that I will have time to get this review to you until sometime ~~after~~ November 1.

Sincerely,

Wesley R. Fishel
